Patronage at the city hall within the control of a majority of the commissioners includes almost a score of important positions exempted by the city charter from civil service regulation. It is anticipated that the distribution of this patronage may prove to be one of the most interesting of the early actions of the new administration.

A chief official such as the city attorney, city clerk, chief of police, or chief of the fire department, may be removed by a vote of three out of five members of the city council. If the three new commissioners vote together they can practically control the patronage within the gift of the city officials.

It is generally understood that City Treasurer Edwin Meese, who has seen several years of service in the office of treasurer and tax collector with the highest credit, is slated to go. Mr. Jackson, the successful candidate for commissioner No. 1, says he has no quarrel with him if he seeks to be assigned to the office of commissioner of public health and safety, new field for Commissioner F. S. Turner. It is understood that W. H. Edwards also seeks this commissionership, and that if an amicable agreement is reached it is likely to be on the basis of making Edwards commissioner of finance and revenue and Dr. Jackson commissioner of public health and safety. With the balance of power in the city council, however, the new commission is right attempting to shift either Commissioner Anderson or Commissioner Edwards from his place, contingency which is highly probable.

THREAT AGAINST CHIEF.

Davie has threatened to "can" Petersen, and this can be done by three votes of the city council. Petersen would then be able, it is said, to fall back upon his title to service "dry."

John Leslie Davie, former mayor of Oakland, was chosen mayor of Oakland at yesterday's election by a majority of over 7000. Davie will assume the office and duties of mayor July 1.

With Davie was swept into office the entire ticket of the opposition to the present city administration with the exception of the opposition candidates for the positions of city auditor and of school director No. 1. The election will work an entire change in the balance of power when the city council is reorganized July 1.

Those elected at yesterday's poll were as follows:

Mayor—John L. Davie.

Auditor—I. H. Clay.

Commissioners—W. H. Edwards and Dr. F. F. Jackson.

School directors—Dr. A. S. Kelly, Louis Aberg and Harry Boyle.

The returns are as follows:

Arguments Begin in Trial of Sebastian

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Rebuttal testimony was concluded and arguments were begun today in the trial of Charles E. Sebastian, mayoralty candidate, and Mrs. Lillie Pratt, on charges that they contributed to the delinquency of Edith Seklin, 17 years old, half-sister of Mrs. Pratt. H. S. G. McCartney, a deputy district attorney, started argument for the state, holding that Sebastian and Mrs. Pratt had been proved guilty of immorality.

Addressess by prosecution and defense may be completed tomorrow, and the case given to the jury, but the prospects are that the trial will not be finished before Friday.

Inhumanity of Lusitania Sinking is denounced in Wilson's Note to Kaiser

America Is Prepared to Meet Any Eventualities Arising From Non-Compliance With Diplomatic Tender, Is President's Solemn Warning

By Associated Press.

GENEVA, via Paris, 6 p. m.—The Austrian government has issued an order that all Austrian ships in Italian ports proceed at once to Trieste or Pola.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The United States government, in a note to Germany today, formally demands of the imperial government a strict accounting for the loss of American lives in the sinking of the Lusitania and violations of American rights in the war zone. It also asks guarantees that there will be no repetition of such events or practices.

With the positive assertion in it that the United States is prepared to meet any eventuality that may arise from a non-compliance, the communication, phrased in unmistakably emphatic language, was prepared to be cabled to Berlin by nightfall.

Written by President Wilson and approved unanimously by the cabinet, the note was drawn carefully, timed by Counsellor Lansing and the law officers of the government at the state department today to make sure that its phrasology covered every point of law involved.

The White House officially announced the fact that the President had finally determined the course of action to be pursued in the following statement issued by Secretary Tammie, after a conference with the President:

"The course of the President has been determined. It will be announced just as soon as it is proper to publish the note now in preparation."

This was taken to mean that the American government, observing the usual diplomatic amenities, would await the receipt of the communication in Berlin before making it public.

At first there was some suggestion that the communication be sent personally by the President to Emperor William, but Wilson determined that it should be addressed not to an individual, but to the German government, and through it to the German people.

As for reparation, the United States naturally will seek financial reparation, but its protest now is in the name of international law and humanity to obtain a guarantee that such tragedies will not be repeated and the lives of non-combatants sacrificed.

ALL INCIDENTS REVIEWED.

The communication lays stress on the inhumanity of the attacks without warning on merchant vessels. It reviews in a general way every case in the war zone in which the rights of American citizens have been transgressed—the sinking of the steamer Falaba, with the loss of Leon C. Thresher; and the attack by Germans on the steamer Cushing; the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulf Light while flying the American flag; and finally the destruction of the Lusitania with the loss of more than a thousand non-combatants, more than one hundred of them Americans.

The note while firm and pointed, does not abandon tones of friendliness, giving room for a disclaimer by Germany of her acts or an abatement of her practices. This is intimated in the suggestion that the German government and the German people could certainly not have intended to sacrifice American lives in the pursuit of their maritime warfare.

Attention is called to the fact that while advertisements of warning appeared in the newspapers, the United States government was never officially informed of it, but irrespective of that, the position is taken that the serving of notice to do an unlawful act neither justifies it nor makes it lawful.

The note calls on Germany for an explanation of her past and future course and leaves open the steps the United States will take to compel an acquiescence in its position.

ALL ADVISERS PLEASED.

Cabinet officers known as the advocates always of vigorous steps in foreign affairs were highly pleased. They said the President's note was the kind of document that fulfilled the desires of every American and upheld the dignity and honor of the United States, indicating that the American government was prepared to go to the full length of its ability.

President Wilson spent the forenoon in his study writing on his typewriter. He saw no callers during the morning, but shortly after noon kept two engagements, made previously.

Despite the tenseness of the international situation, the White House presented outwardly an air of calm. Telegrams from all sections of the country continued to pour in. Practically all expressed the sentiment that the country would stand behind the President in any course of action he determined upon.

Rain Is Forecast, Despite Sunshine

Thought Roosevelt Was Party Leader

By Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, May 12.—Elton R. Brown, Republican leader in the State Senate, swore on the witness stand in the Supreme Court here today that he considered Theodore Roosevelt was the leader of the party in this state from 1906 until 1910. Colonel Roosevelt was President of the United States during a part of that period.

The senator also swore that in 1911 when the state senate was deadlocked over the selection of a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. Barnes had in his instance expressed a willingness to have the Republicans nominate him as an independent Democrat who was unlikely to be beaten.

Witnesses for Colonel Roosevelt testified to an alleged agreement that they said Mr. Barnes had with Charles F. Murphy to allow the Tammany leader to have a "free hand" in the selection of a United States senator.

Giant Ring of Smoke Covers Street Crowds

Blasted into the atmosphere from the great furnaces at the gas plant, foot of Grove street shortly after noon today, a whoo-black ring of smoke and gas whirled high into the air spreading as it rose until it became a perfect circle appearing to be more than 100 feet in diameter. It was wafted seaward above Washington street and Broadway, and over the court house and jail of records where county officials, attorneys and many other people were entering the streets at lunch time.

It was a spectacular sight and one of the most unusual of its kind. Dazzled by the bright sun, Austria Submits Final Offer, and Cabinet Holds Session.

ITALIANS, IN PANIC, WAITING FOR TRAINS

By Associated Press.

LONDON, May 11, 10 p. m.—The Evening News has received a dispatch from its correspondent at Lugano in Switzerland, not far from the Italian frontier, saying that scenes of indescribable panic are occurring on the border. Several thousand Italians are waiting for trains to take them back to Italy. At Udine, in Northeastern Italy, the mayor of the city is providing temporary accommodations for the increased population. Italian steamers, the correspondent continues, are bringing from Zara, in Dalmatia, hundreds of Austro-Italians who are fearful of reprisals at the hands of the Austrians.

crying "Down with Austria! Down with Giolitti!" and cheering for Premier Salandra and Minister of Foreign Affairs Sonnino. Most of the persons in the throng apparently felt the greatest animosity toward former Premier Giolitti, who is regarded as the leader of the peace party. An attempt was made to storm his residence, but it was frustrated by soldiers. The crowd jeered as it passed the German ecclesiastic college.

Demonstrations similar to that in the capital were occurring in the larger towns throughout the country. Classes in those who favor neutrality have been prevented several times by the intervention of troops and the police.

Every precaution has been taken by the authorities of Rome to protect the Austrian and German diplomats accredited both to the Quirinal and the Vatican.

The final Austrian counter proposals are expected soon, but it is not believed they will satisfy the demands of the cabinet, which insists upon the cession of all territory either racially or strategically Italian.

DECISION RESTS WITH KING, NOT HIS CABINET

By Associated Press.

ROME, May 11, 10:25 p. m.—Final decision as to whether Italy shall declare war or remain neutral rests with King Victor Emmanuel. The Italian constitution gives to the sovereign alone authority to "declare war, make peace and conclude treaties."

There is a diversity of opinion in the capital, however, as to whether action by his majesty should be purely formal, or simply in accordance with the decision reached by his ministers. Those who favor making his constitutional prerogative more than a matter of form are urging that as soon as Austria makes its final decision, the cabinet shall ask the king to take supreme command and rely upon his judgment.

Apparently, however, a majority of the people believe the cabinet must assume the responsibility one way or another with the certainty that its decision, involving territorial concessions, the cabinet shall ask the king to take supreme command and rely upon his judgment.

Cunard Line to Keep Lusitania Memorial

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The memorial services to be held in Liverpool tomorrow for the victims of the Lusitania will be observed by the Cunard line here with the closing of its offices between the hours of 12 and 1 p. m. and the suspension for one hour of all work upon its docks. All Cunard flags were half-masted to day.

Lifeboat Picked Up With Lusitania Dead

By Associated Press.

LONDON, May 12.—Lloyd's has reported that a lifeboat of the Lusitania, together with the bodies of four women and two children, was picked up bottom-up yesterday seven miles off Fastnet. The boat was towed into Long Island bay and the bodies taken by the coast guard to Skul, Fastnet, four miles from Cape Clear.

zones, in which means are provided for the elimination of saloons in residential sections, carried by a good majority.

The referendum on free-speech placed on the ballot by Dr. Frank Parker, also carried. This was opposed by the city administration, but it was carried by over 6000 majority.

JITNEY DRIVERS LOSE.

One of the closest contests was that on jitney license reduction. It lost by about 300 votes. This referendum was placed on the ballot at the request of the jitney drivers and was opposed by the street railroad company. It would have reduced the license fee from $60 to $10 had it carried.

The street railway company won out by a large majority on the amendments to the jitney bus ordinance placed on the ballot at the request of officials of the company. The amendments carried include a provision that they may be altered by a four-fifths vote of the city council, but it is extremely doubtful whether this clause is not in direct conflict with the city charter and is thus void.

The contest closed yesterday with the election of John L. Davie as one of the most bitterly fought out in the history of the city. Davie's opponent was Frank W. Bilger. Davie topped Bilger by over 9000 votes at the primary, but Bilger made a gain of over 8000 votes in the three weeks' campaign between the nominating election and the general election. This was not, however, sufficient to have elected him even if Davie had made no gains in the same period of time, as Bilger's vote yesterday lacked about 700 votes of that polled by Davie at the nominating election.

Davie's gain over his vote at the nominating election was over 6500. Bilger gained over 8000, but the extra 1500 was woefully insufficient to bring him up to the Davie total.

HIS PLAN IS CARRIED.

Mayor-elect Davie made his campaign on a platform which included a direct attack on the present city administration, and promise of lower taxes and of "cleaning up the town." In his campaign literature he urged the election of a ticket of which he was the head, in order that he might not be balked in the new city council by being in a minority and so unable to carry out his policies.

The voters apparently decided in favor of this propaganda and elected with Davie, W. H. Edwards and Dr. F. F. Jackson as commissioners.

Dave Edwards and Dr. Jackson will constitute a majority in the city council as it will be constituted July 1. This will place Commissioners Harry S. Anderson and William J. Baccus in a somewhat helpless minority unless some other combination develops before the new council is organized.

A majority of the new council under the Oakland charter, enjoys extensive powers. The commissioners are elected by number as an election convenience, which has no meaning so far as the assignment to departments is concerned. The commissioners holding the balance of power may choose the departments over which they desire to preside, and may assign the minority commissioners as they see fit.

SUBJECT TO PATRONAGE.

There are numerous offices in the city administration which are not under civil service, and which are within the patronage of the commissioners. All the chief officials are exempted from civil service, and are appointed and discharged at the pleasure of the commissioners. The commissioners in administration will probably change many offices at the city hall.

Davie has declared that he would "can" Walter J. Petersen as chief of police. With the agreement of his two associates, this can be done. The city clerk, Frank M. Smith; City Attorney Ben F. Woolner; Superintendent of Streets Perry F. Brown; Fire Chief N. A. Ball; Secretary to the Mayor W. H. Jordan; City Electrician George Babcock; City Treasurer Edwin Moore; who was a candidate against Dr. Jackson in this campaign, and a host of others, may be ousted by the new council.

It was through the superior news service of The Tribune that Oakland knew for many hours before even half the vote had been officially counted what the results would be. The progress of the count in all parts of the city and in all precincts was flashed on the screen as a part of the bulletin service of The Tribune.

Following cablegram which was forwarded to President Wilson:

"We, the undersigned, having observed strict neutrality, though living amid the horrors of war, now feel that in justice to our conditions and in order to preserve our self-respect we must voice an indignant and energetic protest against the sinking of the Lusitania, an act pre-eminent in its savagery and which places the responsible government outside civilization humanity."

Among the signers of the message are Dr. Edmund L. Gross, chief surgeon of the American Ambulance Corps in France, and A. Platt Andrew, formerly assistant secretary of the United States treasury.

In the commissioner contests Edwards led early by well over 5000. The victory for Edwards was secured at a general election early last evening.

Dr. Jackson and Edwin Moore ran a close race for the second commissionership during the fore part of the night, and it was not until midnight that the result was assured.

The figures given are from the semi-official returns from the office of City Clerk Frank Smith and are subject to possible change. They were compiled last night by representatives of the newspapers, but the final returns from several precincts were not brought in until early this morning.

The fact that the jitney ordinance proposed by the San Francisco-Oakland terminal Railways received the highest majority on the ballot indicates, according to W. R. Abberger, vice-president and general manager of the corporation, that the people are in favor of a properly-regulated service by the men engaged in the newest passenger transportation business.

standing as captain of inspectors, from which position he has been given a leave of absence.

The charter specifically exempts certain positions from civil service, and these are considered generally as legitimate political "spoils" accruing to the voters. The officials and employees not protected by civil service are as follows:

City Attorney Ben F. Woolner,

City Treasurer Edwin F. Moore,

City Clerk Frank M. Smith, Superintendent of Streets Perry F. Brown, Chief of Police Walter J. Petersen, Fire Chief N. A. Ball,

City Electrician George Babcock, the Assistant City Attorney, now vacant, the Auditor of the Auditorium, Charles V. Powers, Jr., City Attorney, Dr. Margaret Mahoney, widow of the late Dr. Thomas Mahoney, who resides at 1640 Washington street, and Special Policeman Philip McMahon. Both saw the flames shooting from an alleyway between the two structures at the same time. Apparently the identical thought entered the minds of each. They figured that it would be too late to arouse the occupants if they went to the nearest fire alarm box, two blocks away.

WORLD COURT CONGRESS SITS

Psychological Moment," Says J. H. Hammond

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 12.—The convening of the World Court Congress here this afternoon for a three-day session is at the "psychological moment," according to officers of the congress.

"The part America, as a neutrals, will play in the final settlement of the war will be important," said John Hays Hammond, chairman. "If the United States would calmly stand on its legal rights, taking successive steps to bring the imperial German government to an understanding of the honest purpose of the United States for an abatement of the submarine warfare on non-combatants and reparation for offenses already committed. One subsequent step being discussed today is that of conversations with other neutral governments to determine what steps they intend to take to protect their neutral rights. While the United States has traditionally been opposed to joint action, it often has acted identically with other governments."

NOT WAR, IS HOPE.

President Wilson, however, is not convinced that the policy which the United States has adopted need necessarily lead to hostilities. Even a severance of diplomatic relations does not carry with it such an obligation. The sending of warship convoys with American steamers has been talked among officials, as well as other protective measures, but the American government, according to well-informed persons, proposes to fix the responsibility on Germany for any hostile acts.

If preliminary plans are carried out the congress will take no steps that would gain for it the name of "peace congress." The Lusitania incident will be ignored and means for ending the war will not be discussed. Plans for the development of an international court of justice here, every reason to believe, the aggressors will be willing to accept it.

The object of this congress is first to arouse the American public to a consciousness of the possibilities in such a tribunal, and second, to develop an instant demand for it. The time is ripe."

W. H. EDWARDS.

"I want to thank the people of Oakland for their splendid support during the campaign.

"The 'machine' is smashed and will stay smashed. The wage-earners who are the real taxpayers demanded and have secured the much-needed change. It now behoves us all to join in and work for Oakland's civic and commercial advancement. The clean sweep will assure me of securing the office of Commissioner of Public Health and Safety to which I aspire, and in that office I will do my duty without fear or favor."

W. H. EDWARDS.

"I want to thank the people of Oakland for their splendid support during the campaign. I promise them that they will find me ever ready to represent them honestly and efficiently. I can assure them that they will have no occasion to regret the honor they have bestowed upon me."

F. K. MOTT.

Mayor Mott Sends His Greeting to Successor

Mayor Mott sent the following letter to Mayor-elect John L. Davie to-day:

"Dear Sir.—I desire to extend to you my congratulations on your election as mayor of the City of Oakland. The vote which you received indicates that the people have great confidence in your desire and your ability to carry out policies which you have announced are to be maintained during your administration. This is a distinction of which any citizen may well feel proud. In recognizing this expression of public opinion, I beg you to accept my felicitations herewith set down. Yours very truly,

Send Troops to Stop Anti-German Riots

By Associated Press.

BASSEL, Switzerland, May 12.—The Swiss government is sending more troops today to points on the Southern frontier, especially to Lugano, because of anti-German demonstrations. It is estimated that 10,000 Germans from Italy are in and near Lugano. Local agitators have marched in procession in front of the Lugano hotels, particularly those occupied by Germans, calling out to them insulting phrases. The Lugano police apparently are finding difficulty in dealing with the crowds.

The fact that the jitney ordinance proposed by the San Francisco-Oakland terminal Railways received the highest majority on the ballot indicates, according to W. R. Abberger, vice-president and general manager of the corporation, that the people are in favor of a properly-regulated service by the men engaged in the newest passenger transportation business.

PARIS, May 12, 2:33 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon issued the following statement on the progress of hostilities:

"In the section to the north of Arras we have maintained our ranks, excepting in front of Loos, where a night counter attack resulted in saving from us a part of the terrain we captured in the day time."

"On the rest of the front yesterday saw artillery engagements."

By Associated Press.
BERLIN, May 12, via London, 3:30 p.m.—The German army headquarters today gave a report on the progress of hostilities which reads:

"In the western theater—Aviation of the enemy yesterday dropped bombs on Drave without doing any damage from a military point of view."

"East of Ypres was took an important hill. Lunders was bombed by our artillery. East of Dixmude we shot down a British flying machine. Trenches were taken by the French during the past few days between Caudry and Neuville, north of Artois, are still in their possession; otherwise all the attempts of the enemy made yesterday to break through our lines failed. His attacks were confined chiefly against our positions to the east and southwest of Vermandovilliers, the Lorette Hills, and at the villages of Abbeville and Caudry, as well as against our positions to the east and southeast of Artois."

"Other advances broke down with very heavy losses to the enemy. An attempt by our opponents to take Hartmannswillerkopf again resulted in failure. It is a fact that after vigorous preparations by artillery French Alpine Chasseurs penetrated into the blockhouse on top of the hill, but they were immediately thrown out again."

"In the Eastern theater—The battle at Shavil in Courland still is raging without any result having been reached."

"On the Buzia a Russian battalion which made an attempt to cross the river was annihilated."

"In the southeastern arena of the war—Our position between the Carpathians and the Visztula river is still in full swing and further heavy damage has been inflicted upon the enemy along this entire front. For example a battalion of the Polish Foot Guards Regiment alone lost four officers, including colonel and 4500 men, prisoners, and at the same time captured four cannon, one machine gun company with horses and one baggage column."

"Forces of the Teutonic allies have crossed the river San between Szabolcs and Esztergom. Farther to the northwest they have reached the region of Ezeszowmeles."

"Troops fighting in the Carpathians on both sides of the Stry yesterday drove the enemy out of his positions."

soldiers from death and destruction by American munitions of war. We have sympathy with the victims and their relatives, of course, but did we hear anything about sympathy for neutrals when England adopted her diabolical plan of starving a great nation? Where was foreign sympathy when thousands of innocent inhabitants of East Prussia were robbed and murdered by Russian hordes without any military purpose whatever?"

"Why this sudden concentration of sympathy upon unfortunate victims of the sea while civilized neutral nations show little sympathy for hundreds of thousands who suffer a far more terrible death in the battlefields of the east and west in a war for existence forced upon us and which would have ended long since but for shipments of munitions to our enemies—war in which the English and French have assembled yellow, brown and black semi-savages for our destruction?"

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 12.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt last night had a plea for prompt action by the United States on account of the Lusitania disaster, while commending President Wilson's sense of justice in the gathering of naturalized Americans in Philadelphia. Roosevelt was particularly interested in that part of the President's speech in which the latter referred to "such a thing as a man being too proud to fight" and "the nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

"I think that China is entitled to draw all the comfort she can from this statement," said Roosevelt, "and it will be well for the United States to consider seriously what the effect upon China had been of managing her foreign affairs during the last fifteen years on the theory thus announced."

"If the United States is satisfied with occupying some time in the future the precise international position that China now occupies, then the United States' efforts to act on this theory if it desires to retain or regain the position won it under Washington and the man whom the days of Abraham Lincoln were the blue ribbon and the gray ulcer Lee."

"I very earnestly hope that the President will act promptly. The proper time for deliberation was prior to sending the message that our government would hold Germany to a 'strict accountability' if it did the things which it has now actually done."

"The 120 babies drowned on the Lusitania, the hundreds of women drowned with them—scores of these women and children being Americans—and the American ship, the Gulflight, which was torpedoed, after an eloquent commentary on the actual workings of the theory that it is not necessary to assert rights and that a policy of blood and iron can with efficacy be met with a policy of blood and water."

SCORES PROPOSAL.

"I see it stated in the dispatches from Washington that Germany has offered to stop the practice of murder on the high seas committed in violation of the neutral rights she is pledged to preserve, if we will now abandon further neutral rights, which by her treaty she has solemnly pledged to see that we exercise without molestation."

"Such a proposal is not even entitled to an answer. The manufacture and shipment of arms and ammunition to any belligerent is moral or immoral, according to the standard of right and wrong."

"Centuries have passed," declared Roosevelt, "since any war vessel of any civilized power has shown such ruthless brutality toward non-combatants, and especially toward women and children. The pirates of the Barbary Coast behaved in this fashion until civilized powers put them down. It was a victory of the defenseless."

"The defense of this act would be the defense that would likewise justify poisoning wells in the path of a hostile army; a plea that would justify the torture of prisoners and the reduction of captured women into slavery."

"Are we now to change faces and advance the supreme interest of America dollars as the justification for continuance in the refusal to do the duty imposed on us in connection with this war?"

STAND BY PRESIDENT;—TAFT

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—Former President William H. Taft urged patience and calmness in the present international situation and called upon the citizens of the country to stand by President Wilson, in an address at the Union League here last night. Referring to the sinking of the Lusitania, Professor Taft said: "The inhumanity of the circumstances in the case presses us on, but in the heat of even just indignation, is not the best way to act, when action involves such momentous consequences and means uncounted loss of life and treasure."

"There are things worse than war," Mr. Taft declared, "but delay due to calm deliberation cannot change the situation or minimize the effect of what we finally conclude to do. With the present condition of the war in Europe, our action, if it is to be extreme, will not lose efficacy by giving time to people whose war it will be, to know what they are facing."

"Under our constitution the President conducts our foreign affairs until Congress finds it necessary to declare war. Upon him is the acute responsibility in such a crisis. If he were to yield to the cry of extremists and summon Congress to take extreme measures, he would have great influence with Congress under such provocation. Indeed the impulse to such action has unusually been stronger with Congress than with the executive."

"Now it may be that a series of acts of inhumanity and violations of the laws of war to our national detriment and against our citizens may force us on and lead our people to believe that whatever the cost, no other course is open to us."

"But we must bear in mind that if we have a war it is the people who must pay with lives and money the cost of it, and therefore they should not be hurried into the sacrifice until it is clear that they wish it and know what they are doing when they wish it."

"A demand for war that cannot survive the passion of the first days of public indignation and will not endure the test of delay and deliberation by all the people, is not one that should be yielded to."

The President, he said, was acting like Washington, Lincoln, and McKinley in trying to avoid war. In the present situation it was imperative that he should know the opinion of the country without regard to prejudice.

"The task of the President is a heavy one," continued Mr. Taft. "He is acting for the whole country. He is anxious to find a way out of the present difficulty without war."

"Before party, before ourselves, we are for our country. That is what he is working for. Still we not stand by him in it. He will not surrender our country's right. It may be necessary that for a hundred lives and the method of their taking we should lose thousands and hundreds of thousands of our national honor and interests, may ultimately demand it, but time for serious thought and clearly weighing the consequences will not prejudice the justice of our cause or the opportunity to vindicate it and this the President may be counted on."

"It is the people's cause, not his alone, and he does well, when quick action is of no critical importance, to allay excitement and to await the regular and studied action of the people's representatives."

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Taft proposed a toast to "The President of the United States." This was drunk standing and amid a great outburst of enthusiasm.

WOULD DEMAND REPARATION.

JACKSON, Miss., May 12.—United States Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, in a statement here today regarding the Lusitania disaster, declared that if the vessel was armed Germany was justified in torpedoing her, "but," he added, "I am inclined to think she was not armed in any way."

Discussing the torpedoing of the American steamer Gulflight, Senator Williams said: "If I were President I would mobilize the fleet and demand of Germany not only an apology and indemnity, but also the return of our ship. This indeed should not be repeated. But this would be a demand only, and not an ultimatum."

"However," he said, "I am perfectly willing to leave the entire subject with the President, who is fully informed and will do the proper thing."

Standard Remedy for Many Homes

Indigestion and constipation are two conditions closely related and the cause of much physical suffering.

The tendency to indulge one's appetite is general, so that most people suffer at some time or another from retension of the overtaxed organs of digestion and elimination. A simple, pleasantly effective remedy that will quickly relieve the congestion of pernicious waste and restore regularity is the use of Dr. Caldwell's laxative herbs with poppy, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Poppy. This is a mild, pleasant laxative-tonic and dietetic, absolutely free from opiates or narcotic drugs, and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years. VISCOUNT BRYCE FILES HIS REPORT

Former Ambassador to U. S. Places Evidence Before Premier Asquith.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, May 12.—Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to Washington, and now chairman of a special government committee appointed to investigate and report on "outrages alleged to have been committed by German troops during the present war," has submitted the report of the committee to Premier Asquith.

The document is considered probably the most severe arraignment thus far made of the German military sweep across Belgium, mainly because of the position of Viscount Bryce as an historian and also because of the care with which the committee was given to the gathering of witnesses whose testimony was examined, and the mass of evidence now submitted with the report of the committee.

Associated with Lord Bryce on the committee were Sir Frederick Pollock, Sir A. L. Fisher, Vice-chancellor of the University of Sheffield, Harold Cox and Kenneth Bigby. The committee was appointed by the prime minister last year, and was given broad instructions to investigate "alleged outrages, maltreatment of civilians and breaches of law and established usages of war."

The most important finding of the committee was summed up in the following conclusions at the close of the report:

DEFINITE CONCLUSIONS.

"It will be seen that the committee has come to a definite conclusion upon each point of inquiry under which the evidence has been classified:

We believe:

"First: That there were in many parts of Belgium deliberate and systematically planned massacres of the civil population accompanied by many isolated murders and other outrages."

"Second: That in the conduct of the war generally innocent civilians, both men and women, were murdered in large numbers and women violated and children murdered."

"Third: That looting, house burning, and the wanton destruction of property were ordered and countenanced by the German army, and that a stock exchange committee had adopted a resolution asking members of Teutonic birth to avoid the exchange during the war."

The mayor has consented to comply with the request that he call a mass meeting to voice protest against Germany's action.

"A large German flag is spread on the ground where the petitioners stand while writing their names. Another German flag was publicly burned in front of the town hall. Petards have been displayed urging a boycott of Germans and a stock exchange committee has adopted a resolution asking members of Teutonic birth to avoid the exchange during the war."

FEAR WOMAN WAS LUSITANIA VICTIM

Efforts to Trace Mrs. W. L. McGuire Thus Far Prove Futile.

SAN FRANCISCO. May 12.—All efforts to trace Mrs. W. L. McGuire, San Francisco operator and mining broker, have failed since the sinking of the British liner Lusitania, in which she was among the 1,195 lost in the disaster. Although her name was not on the official list of passengers, attorney Louis M. Hoefler found that the Cunard Company had booked a large list of passengers on the Lusitania who had expected to sail on the New York and it is practically certain that Mrs. McGuire was on this list.

Anxious messages were sent yesterday to her divorced husband, who is at present in the N.Y.C. desert, but no response has been received. All efforts to track Mrs. McGuire have been futile and her friends have given up hope of finding her alive. Mrs. McGuire went to Europe as a trained nurse, and a letter announcing that she intended to sail from New York for Liverpool on May 1, was received by her attorney today on April 25th. In the letter Mrs. McGuire told Hoefler that she was receiving preliminary training as a nurse in an emergency hospital in New York and detailed other particulars of her plans to go aboard and join the Red Cross.

Friends of the supposedly dead woman were told that she was taking this step in order to forget the distress and sorrow she had undergone in divorcing McGuire. Both Mrs. McGuire and her husband were prominent in the social set of San Francisco before their divorce and are well known as social leaders both here and abroad.

CONDEMS COTTON MILLS AT INDUSTRIAL HEARING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON. May 12.—Dr. A. J. McNealy, southern secretary of the National Child Labor Commission told the Industrial Relations Commission that cotton mills of the South were the chief proponents of child labor reform legislation.

He declared certain cotton mills throughout the South were maintaining "show mills," with schools, churches, hospital and welfare organizations.

"Behind these mills," he said, "all the other mills hide. It is very difficult to secure remedial measures. What amounts to feudalism prevails in these mill towns. The companies own the houses, streets, schools and the churches—even in some cases, the graveyards."

Dr. McNealy presented figures to show that many operatives, both children and adults, got an average wage of less than $2 a week. "Negro children," he said, "were not employed in the mills to any great extent."

"It is a fact," said he, "that negro children are getting a better opportunity for education than the white children of the South."

"Employment of young boys as messengers by telegraph and local messenger companies in some southern cities," he said, "was under conditions that were terrific."

"The boys," he said, "are thrown in contact with denizens of red-light districts and other vicious elements."

VALUATION FIGURES SHOW INCREASE IN EXPENSES

CHICAGO. May 12.—Valuation figures covering various railroads were introduced late yesterday before W. M. Daniels, Interstate Commerce Commissioner in the western freight advance hearing.

W. H. Gleason, an expert accountant, introduced figures showing the valuation of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, exclusive of the Pacific Coast extension, giving the operating income for 1914 as $34 per cent of the property, or $30 million of road.

James Peacock, statistician for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, declared that his records showed that the cost of transportation figures in units was increasing slightly on the whole road.

Society

MRS. HAROLD OSBORN, WHO RECEIVED THIS AFTERNOON
AT MISS OSBORN'S
BRIDGE PARTY
FOR MISS ZEILE.

There is a strange sort of method in the madness of dress. A certain balance seems to be maintained this season in skirts and collars. Short skirts and high collars. Gowns receding from the ground have risen about the throat and the old-fashioned "cheek" is worn again. It may never be popular. Fashions don't have to be. Women wear them while they hate them. But it has arrived, and the sticklers for style are wretchedly à la mode. All of the easy decollete discarded. Collars that have turned gracefully away from the throat are rolled into "sweater" effects, and others supported by whale-bone extend into the hair at the back.

For evening there are still low cut gowns, but as a compromise with the fashion there are broad throat bands of tulle tied into high fluffs behind. There are even Elizabethan rouches of tulle that are quaint, if unbecoming.

However, nothing about fashion is fixed, except its mutability. Skirts will descend in a season or two when collars will be low again. Or if skirts vanish altogether into knickerbockers, as certain prophets foretell, the low-cut blouse will be de rigueur, no doubt, as it is in the chorus of opera bouffe.

GUESTS AT CARD PARTY.

Miss Mabel Zeile and Miss Margarita Baum of Oakland were among guests at a bridge party given this afternoon at Mrs. Frank Welling's home across the bay. Miss Welling entertained in honor of Miss Myrtle Little of San Francisco, whose wedding to Mr. Roy Hills will take place on June 9. Miss Little made many friends in the country and has frequently been entertained in Oakland. A number of Oakland friends are included in the guest list for a card party to be given by Mrs. George Preissley at her home in Pacific avenue next week, in Miss Little's honor.

MRS. DENICKE A HOSTESS.

Mrs. Frederick Denickie gave a luncheon today at her home in Berkeley in honor of Mrs. H. E. Myers of Chicago and Mrs. Ernest Newberry of St. Louis, who are visiting in Claremont. The luncheon arrangements were an effective arrangement of pink flowers with yellow streamers and covers were laid for 14, among the guests being Mrs. Edward Gordon Garden, Mrs. Harry Manville Wright, Mrs. Harry Fessenden, Mrs. Garfield Eddy of Seattle, Mrs. Lindsey and others.

WEDDING IN JUNE.

Mrs. Walter Van Dyke and Miss Caroline Van Dyke of Los Angeles will come north in June to attend the wedding of the former's son, Dr. Edwin Van Dyke, Miss Mary Ames of Berkeley. Dr. Van Dyke, who is connected with the sole proprietorship of the University, a brother of Mrs. Franklin Barnes of Oakland, and the marriage will be of interest to society here as well as in Berkeley.

TO GIVE LUNCHEON.

Mrs. Fred Muhlen will be hostess at a luncheon on Thursday at her home in Vernon Heights, entertaining a dozen guests in honor of Mrs. Louis Foukou of Alameda, a bride of the season.

FOR BRIDES-ELECT.

Mrs. Edwin Otis will be hostess at a bride party on Friday afternoon in the home of two of the season's brides-elect, Miss Mabel Zeile, the fiancee of Mr. Peter Sutton, and Miss Myrtle Little of San Francisco, who is engaged to Mr. Roy Hills. About 30 guests will be entertained at the Otis home in Alameda.

INFORMAL TEA.

Mrs. Frank Stringham's tea this afternoon for Miss Virginia Field, was a small informal affair, at which a dozen guests were entertained. Miss Field, who with her mother, Mrs. Stringham Field of San Jose, Miss, is visiting Mrs. Field's mother, Mrs. S. L. Butters, has been entertained at a series of informal parties. Her relatives, Mrs. Philip Boone and Mrs. Ralph Phelps, are among those who have given affairs in her honor. Mrs. Field and her daughter will spend several months in California.

HOSTESS AT BRIDGE.

He wants two vessels to start the navy and he requires the sum of $100,000.

General Pesquera, who is now in New York, has signed three bills into law.

The first was the Moral and Moral Support of Utah labor bill, signed by Governor John D. Johnson, consisting on a charge of tax evasion under the miners' tax. The second was the bill for a state tax on the production of oil.

THE CITY ELECTION.

John L. Davie was elected Mayor of Oakland yesterday, and two of his friends, Messrs. Edwards and Jackson, were the successful candidates for commissionerships. More than fifty per cent of the vote which might have been cast did not reach the ballot box. Mr. Davie was made Mayor by less than one-third of the voters of this city. He is consequently very much of a minority Mayor.

The causes responsible for the defeat of Mr. Bilger and the election of Mr. Davie are many and complex. The persistently inclement weather doubtless kept from the polls a very large number of persons who believed in Mr. Bilger and what he stands for and who would have voted for him; but the influence which exercised the most potent effect upon the results of yesterday's election was undoubtedly a vague but somewhat widespread feeling on the part of voters that they desired "a change." Why the change was wanted and what constitutes a desirable change was never very clearly stated in the course of the campaign discussions. It was assumed without justification or warrant by many persons that Mr. Davie would give the people "the change" in the management of affairs which they desired and that Mr. Bilger would be less likely to do so. With a large number of voters in this frame of mind and with the time for the active campaign work limited to a fortnight it was impossible to change this settled but unseasoned conviction. Had the opportunity of an educational campaign been extended another two or three weeks the result would probably have been very different.

The Tribune, for reasons which it deems sound and sufficient, earnestly opposed the election of Mr. Davie. His actions during the campaign, coupled with his reckless, irresponsible statements, have confirmed us in our opinions concerning him. Our views respecting his availability for the position of Mayor of this hopeful and growing community are unchanged. But the election is over. Mr. Davie has won; and with his friends who have been chosen commissioners, he will have the power to carry out, if he chooses, some of the promises which he so freely made during the campaign.

The Tribune believes every man should have his chance. We hope Mr. Davie will be an excellent, upright and wholly successful Mayor. Official responsibility, prosperity and possession of a fixed habitation may have a steady and sobering effect upon him. This is frequently the case with those who are called to public office. It will be the duty of all good citizens cordially to give Mr. Davie that measure of support which he merits and to which his deeds and activities entitle him. The Tribune will give Mr. Davie and the new administration fair and just treatment. Its news column will be open to him and he can always get a hearing in them. This paper is a newspaper and our first and main concern is with the news of the day. We strive to print all that is worth while and to give both sides of the story. We adhered to this policy during the campaign, and no one knows it better than Mr. Davie himself. So far as his policies are concerned, we shall be heartily glad to support them when they are sound, wise, timely and appear to be honestly conceived and executed. Mr. Davie has the greatest opportunity of his life before him. It is within his power definitely to abandon his past, to concentrate his efforts upon the prosperity and well-being of Oakland and to make a respectable and respected Mayor. The Tribune wishes him well.

A PERTINENT INQUIRY.

The National Security League, an organization of which the Hon. Jos. H. Choate, former Ambassador to Great Britain is president, and which is composed of some of the foremost men of the country, has been making a careful study of the question of military preparedness. This league has no political ends to serve. Among its active members are distinguished men of the Democratic, the Republican and the Progressive parties. The members believe that the United States has no well defined, well rounded, scientific system of national defense; therefore, it is trying to get at the facts bearing on the whole subject of army and navy unpreparedness in order that the people may know what the true conditions are. These investigations have nothing to do with politics and they are conducted in a dispassionate, scientific way.

Certain very interesting facts have already been ascertained by the committee which has been conducting investigations for the league. It found that there are no more than 30,000 regular troops in the United States proper. These troops are so widely scattered as to make their rapid mobilization impossible. They are short of officers, have an insufficient amount of ammunition and equipment and no organized reserve to support them.

The National Security League also calls attention to the fact that the Coast defenses are inadequate and very insufficiently manned. We have had occasion to discuss these points before. None of them are new. They have been well understood by all persons who have given thoughtful attention to the question of national defense.

To take a concrete example: we have no hesitancy in stating that the artillery in the forts at San Francisco is at the present time inferior in range to the largest guns mounted on the latest type of superdreadnaughts. This means that the most modern of war vessels could lie safely a mile or two beyond the range of the guns in the San Francisco fortifications and batter the city to pieces if it so chose. There is not enough ammunition in the country to supply all the Coast defense fortifications for two days' consecutive firing. We have not enough men to man the fortifications nor enough officers to direct the men.

It is probable that too much stress has been laid on the importance of coast defense artillery and forts. There are only comparatively few places in which coast fortifications are of great importance in any well thought test as emphatic, definite and full of moral significance.

our modern scheme of national defense. The real protection for the coast must be a navy which is able to cope with and destroy any hostile fleet which may be sent against it, and the main harbor defense for the future will be the submarine. We have expended millions and millions of dollars on Coast defenses much of which in the light of modern knowledge is probably wasted. The trouble has been that our study of the question of national defense has been too largely modified by the force of local interests and conditions. What the National Security League is trying to do is to imbue the popular mind with the conviction that defense to be available, adequate and economical must be devised upon broad, scientific, national lines.

TOO MUCH WALSH.

We gather both from the Democratic and Republican press in the East that President Wilson is very much out of patience with Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the Commission on Industrial Relations. This information is by no means surprising to those who have followed the reports of the commission's work, and of Mr. Walsh's peculiar antics. He completely destroyed the character of his commission as an impartial investigating body when he began talking flippantly and in a biased manner to the New York reporters. He showed that he had made up his mind upon many important points in controversy between capital and labor and that he could not be a fair-minded seeker for the truth. His controversy with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., completely destroyed his reputation for poise, high intelligence, if not for veracity. Mr. Walsh and his commission have been unfortunate in their efforts and the result of their activities has been sensibly to add to, rather than to diminish, the spirit of distrust which prevails in some sections between the employer and the working man. Chairman Walsh has been a mischief maker and a trouble breeder, instead of a conciliator.

The real purpose of this commission was, of course, to make friends among the laboring classes for the administration. That has been apparent from the start. The commission was "packed," so to speak, with this end in view. The President appointed it and he must suffer the consequences of its unfortunate activities. It lies within his power to put it out of business. If he will recommend that it be discontinued in his message to Congress, the appropriation for its support will be cut off forthwith.

FOOLING SAN FRANCISCO.

We stated in The Tribune more than two months ago that the great North Atlantic fleet of the American navy would not come through the canal and would not visit California. This conclusion was reached by the administration early last December; and there has been no change of purpose on the part of President Wilson and his advisers.

Col. Goethels did not object to the passing of the fleet through the canal only on the ground that it might be delayed by slides, as the ill informed newspaper correspondents asserted. He based his main objections upon the substantial grounds of public policy. He believed that it would be a mistake in view of the turmoil in Europe and the ever present possibility of this country becoming involved with some phase of the great war, to permit the whole of the effective part of the United States navy to pass into the Pacific ocean and separate itself by thousands of miles from its natural base on the Atlantic seaboard.

We pointed out when it was suggested in the latter part of last year that the fleet be sent to San Francisco to participate in the opening of the Exposition energetic protests were made by many influential people in the eastern part of the country, and that these protests were so numerous and so strong that they could not fail to carry great weight. Pretty much everybody outside of San Francisco who is well informed, and who really knows what is going on in the world, has been perfectly well aware that the fleet was not to be sent to that city during the course of the European war. Col. Goethels did not object to the passing of the fleet through the canal only on the ground that it might be delayed by slides, as the ill informed newspaper correspondents asserted. This inference drawn from this disclosure is that the President had withheld the correspondence for the sole purpose of administering a rebuke to Chairman Walsh and indicating his displeasure at the way Mr. Walsh has carried on a controversy in the newspapers with John D. Rockefeller Jr.

This inference apparently was borne out by the expression from an adviser of the President of the opinion that Chairman Walsh's official conduct has greatly handicapped the usefulness of the Industrial Relations Commission.

Evidence of an authoritative character made it appear that the President in refusing to furnish the commission the correspondence between the White House and Governor Ammons of Colorado did so to indicate his disapproval of Mr. Walsh's conduct.

The inference drawn from this disclosure is that the President had withheld the correspondence for the sole purpose of administering a rebuke to Chairman Walsh and indicating his displeasure at the way Mr. Walsh has carried on a controversy in the newspapers with John D. Rockefeller Jr.

This inference apparently was borne out by the expression from an adviser of the President of the opinion that Chairman Walsh's official conduct has greatly handicapped the usefulness of the Industrial Relations Commission.

As a result of these developments speculation arose as to whether Chairman

Walsh's retirement from the head of the com-mision is to be forecasted. It was pointed out, however, that the present hearing probably will be the last undertaken by the commission before it formulates

a report on the Colorado strike.

The disclosure of the President's attitude toward Chairman Walsh probably should be regarded as intended merely to rid the administration of the disfavor which might be brought on it by the manner in which the investigation has been conducted on the character of the report to be formulated at its conclusion.

Friends of the President insist that he should not be held responsible for the conduct of Chairman Walsh. Inasmuch as the Industrial Relations Commission is answerable to Congress instead of to the President, but it is realized that since

Mr. Walsh is an appointee of this administration, Mr. Wilson, if he maintains silence, cannot hope to escape a large measure of the disfavor which has resulted in the minds of business men and others from the aggravating policy pursued by the chairman of the commission.

THE FORUM

"MOVIES ON THE FERRY."

A person who lacks the courage to ask such a question may be interested in the suggestion.

To the Editor: I am convinced that Oakland's great need is a free movie exhibit in the upper cabin of the ferry boats. This attraction would draw the weakness and dreary monotony of travel to a rapid moving picture show. People would be more interested in the movies than in the scenes of the sea.

I am aware that some of the boats would have to be changed in the upper cabin to make it a good audience room.

Oakland, May 10.

LOIE FULLER'S VIEWS.

To the Editor: May Loie Fuller tender her sincerest and deepest expression of gratitude for what you have done in the interests of THE TRIBUNE to help us make known to the public the name of Oakland.

It is a great achievement for the people of Oakland to have within its radius a vast auditorium—an auditorium which opens its portals to the citizens who built it and came in force to dedicate and inaugurate it on Friday night, the last day of April, 1915. What a achievement is that edition, that monument to the people, for the people, built by the people for their development and their joy.

Who knows, it may one day be a temple, a haven of rest, peace, comfort for some great object now unknown.

The brains and hearts which have participated in the creation of this city. Not enough can be said in their praise. Not enough can be said—yes I among the people—thank them, love and appreciate them. It will one day serve as a monument to their memory, and your paper played a greater part than you, Mr. Editor, probably know, for the journals of the twentieth century hold the approval or condemnation of human efforts in the hollow of their hands.

On this freely expressed opinion of the newspaper journalist can rest the judgment of a multitude. Just think them, Mr. Editor, how much—how very much—thank you for the great port and help you gave us that memorable night in the making of history here in Oakland. So may I write this letter to thank you and to say how happy I am to have contributed even the smallest thing towards the success of the popular auditorium of Oakland, California.

LOIE FULLER,
Oakland, May 10, 1915.

MR. CLARK PROTESTS.

To the Editor: The last issue of your paper published a letter from Ex-Assemblyman Wm. C. Clark to the editor of THE TRIBUNE that he did not sign or circulate certain postal cards endorsing the candidacy of Dr. F. F. Jackson for commissioner No. 2.

I will state that I am the Wm. C. Clark who sent out those postal cards and that I sent them only to my friends, and I feel that it is evidence of a great deal of presumption on the part of the said Mr. Clark to feel that he is the only one by that name in Oakland who might be interested in the political situation.

gethers in the hearing of the case before nicalities they want a chance to consciously exonerate themselves of any charge that they have done wrong," said Attorney Windham, last night. "They will take a position that they have committed no wrong, and are sure that all the matters which have been brought against them can and will be explained to the entire satisfaction of the jury."

AMATEUR STARS COMPLETE WORK IN TRAINING CAMP

Al Rogers and Frankie Denny Both Confident of Victory.

(By THE TIMEKEEPER) Frankie Denny and Al Rogers, the two sterling 14-weighters who are to be masters at the Whelmen's gym tomorrow night have completed their training, and both are in prime condition. Denny has thrown several training bouts at the Whelmen's hub and at Russell park in company with a few sparing partners and states that he is in the best condition yet.

Ray Carlen, Denny's manager, who also handles the managerial reins of Al Heitner and Jimmy Williams, expressed confidence in the ability of Frankie to deliver tomorrow night. "Denny is in better condition than he was for his former fight," said Carlen. "I am confident he will put up a stiff contest. I feel sure that Denny will emerge the victor."

"I am glad that the Whelmen masters have done a good job in training the boys," said Carlen. "Denny has not been forced to extend himself very much as yet and the local fans are a little skeptical in regarding him seriously as a champion. He is a weighty boxer, Denny, which we believe he will. I will spare no effort in trying to bring him together with Pete Taxis, whom I think is made just right for Denny."

Rodgers has been training hard. Tony Dampier, who is from the East, has come to the Whelmen's gym and has been hammering his sparring partners so hard that Dampier was forced to get in and put the last through the paces by himself. Rodgers will have the benefit of Dampier's assistance tomorrow night.

The fans of that section are confident of Rodgers' ability and feel sure that Dampier, as is usually the case, will pilot a winner.

Denny and Rodgers are not the only ones who are looking forward to the East. Jimmy Duffy, Oakland's champion 110-pounder, is slated to battle with one Jimmy Williams.

Duffy is perhaps one of the cleanest little mixers that ever topped the beam at 110 pounds and without doubt the amateur stars' stellar banner. He has a record of over 11 straight fights.

Jimmy Dundee, the fan's boy, will return to the call of the ring Saturday night. Harry Williams, who is the 110-pounder, is a straight mixer and has always given the fans a good run for their money.

One of the best bouts of the evening will be furnished when Freddie Graham and Eddie Clegg, both from Boston, go at it.

The two met once before in an exciting bout as was ever staged in this section, the judges calling the affair a draw after four rounds of steady mixing.

Fred Perry, another one of Dampier's mixers, will be in the ring as a new comer, while Fred White and Joe Perry, lightweights, will also mix. Two curtain raisers will conclude the bill.

Fredie Murdock, Dick Adams and R. Fredrickson, all fighters, Long Beach, etc., are lad who Whitely would gladly

Famous Tennis Star Killed in Dardanelles Fight

THE LATE A. F. WILDING.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Anthony F. Wilding, the New Zealand lawn tennis champion who was killed in the allied attack on the Dardanelles, played his last matches in this city before he went home to join the troops sent by New Zealand to aid the mother country. With Norman E. Brookes, he made up the Australasian team which last year carried the Davis international cup back from the United States to the Antipodes.

Wilding was born in New Zealand in 1888. From the age of sixteen he won a succession of tournaments in the British Isles and at one time or another held every title in the British Isles. He was rated as the greatest player the game ever has produced. He first appeared in the Davis cup matches in 1905 and 1906 with Brookes successfully defeating the trophy in 1906.

After Great Britain captured the cup and it was won in turn by the United States Wilding and Brookes came to this country last summer and met McLoughlin and Williams, the latter of the Western club, Long Island. On that occasion Wilding defeated Williams and Brookes lost to McLoughlin, but together the Australasians captured the doubles and the trophy. Wilding at the time of his death was a second lieutenant in the royal marines.

ST. MARY'S ATHLETES KEEP IN TRAINING

The St. Mary's track aspirants are still in training. The events which are keeping the collegian cinderpath men busy are the annual picnics of the Knights of the Red Branch and the Caldonian club, which occur during the latter part of the present month. The track and field aspirants entered in relay races, the men being a strong relay team and capable of entering in cinder relay events. The probable relay team, in the opinion of Coach Lee, is composed of Silva, Bowden, McNamee, Keeler and Keenan.

Sixty-four have signed up in the sprints and his consistent work during the season insures him a place on the relay squad. The college will be staunchly represented in jumps and relays, as well as in the cinder and track and field events. Among them is "Chick" Randall, who in a recent meet with Technical high school cleared the vaulting bar close to 11 feet. Randall is also a burdler. In middle distances Captain McNamee is set to the 1000 and should do something in the 440 yard dash at the picnics.

To distance men the college team, in fact, includes a 1000 man, but he has not yet taken to the picnics, it is expected that the relay team and those entered in the other events will bring back a good account of themselves.

CHARLEY CHAPLIN'S COMIC CAPERS

(Copyright, 1915, by Chicago Herald. By arrangement with Kearny Co.)

Charley Has Something Besides 11½ Meals Coming.

'The Sporting Editor' Says:
Says He,
About
As:
Follows:

No, no, it's not what you were or what you're going to be, but what you are today. In baseball there's no refusal for the "hook 'em." When he is wavering he cannot point to the day when he was the best, the day when he was cheered and the day when he was the worst. Hit 'em, Charley, today and tomorrow and the fans are with you. Show an inch and they'll forget it, and the best example is being exhibited in Paul deJarnett who, Napoleon Lajoie is trying to fill the position left vacant by Eddie Collins' departure.

Listed to this. They are hissing the great Napoleon. Yes, the Quaker City fans are jeering this once-upon-a-time king. When he fails to hit 'em over the fence with somebody on they call him a has-been. When he doesn't run out to the center field wall for somebody's line drive, they are greeting him with this: "Back to Cleveland for you, you old dog!"

It's cruel, isn't it, to treat Lajoie in this fashion? But that's baseball. You can win, and you always, to be fit for the fans.

It looks like the Oaks have hit their 1915 stride. They are in the cellar now and solid, and after what the machine-logged "push" team did to them in Salt Lake last week, they are now twice as good as the Oaks. They shifted the batting order twice last week, and tried his staff against the Bees, and the more they played the worse the results looked.

Just as we said at the beginning of last season, we can't say why the Oaks did not win games. Of course, the claim of the Oaks is that it is better this year than it was last, that is the teams are playing much better ball, but the Oaks stand up well against any of the clubs on paper, and about the only explanation is that they are not getting enough runs or the opposing teams are getting too many.

We could say that the team is not getting the breaks, but it seems impossible that a team could have had luck detailed out to them all the time. Even at that it is easy to see where they have tossed games away on little things. For instance, Saturday night they were four errors made, even though the Sals beat them by four runs, every one of those runs could be accounted for by boots on the part of the Oaks' players. Looking over the tallies, last night's game, it was either boots or thrown away chances that lost four out of the five games that went to the Bees.

It is a cliché that the Oaks are not going like they should, and it is to be hoped that a remedy can be found. The fans will have a chance to look the local boys over with their own eyes during the next four weeks, and possibly then we will know if it is a cliché that the Oaks and Cook have spared no expense in getting together the 1915 Oaks, but at their present rate they look like a bad investment.

The field of baseball must be pretty limited when the Pacific Coast league can release all the excellent material it has done without having that same material grabbed up by the American. The other young baseball players turned loose by the Coast league this year is appalling, and well calculated to deter thoughtful youngsters from adopting the game as a profession.

The game alone has turned loose a raft of players including a number of pretty promising lads. For instance: Menges, Kaylor, Watson, Daniels, Aragon, Guest, Price, Le, Clark, Markay, Hill, Johnson, Gresham, Ladd, Jack Drotka and Alcock. Of all these, Jack Kililay is the only one who was able to catch on anywhere else in the league. Menges and Kaylor managed to get berths with the Indians, while Clark and Hill are small. Such names as Guest and Aragon can't find employment.

Look at the men the Seals have turned loose—Joe Tobin, Rudy Baerwald, Nig Clark and Charlie Charles. The year before, we would have given the Seals $4000 in order to have taken Tobin, Clark and Charles from them, and the Seal fans would have hollered murder at the thought of it.

John McCorde, turning Red Murphy loose and talking about releasing Walter Deane? Hogan turns out young Rader, Salt Lake turns back the highly touted Cy Morgan and Joss no place for Frank Arellanes. Even the Indians, Columbia, Newell, Leonard, Farham, Bert Corr, Hu Pernoll, Meusel are sent out begging for place in the broad line.

The game is pretty tough right now and none know it any better than the players.

Joe Tobin, the former Seal outfielder, and now Victoria gardener, was in poor form yesterday and only bashed out three doubles and a single in five times at bat. Easterly, the former Salt Lake twirler now with Seattle, was the sufferer.

Ralph Strong, the Sacramento star of last year, made his second real start in the box for the Giants yesterday and was beaten in a pitching battle by Ruth Weston, the Circuit beaver. Strong

"Hook-'Em" Smith Is Too Much for Tigers

OAKLAND, May 12.—"Hook 'em" Smith was the man factor in the Seals' victory over the Tigers. The final score was 3 to 1. The Tigers made only three hits up to the ninth inning, three of those being made by Joe Wilholtz. Meanwhile the Seals had put over three runs, one present in the first, and earned runs in the fourth and eighth innings. In the ninth, after the Tigers had registered two hits off the veteran "Hook 'em," the latter sent out the S. O. S. which was promptly answered by Skeeter Fanning, who later turned the switch and announced "Game over."

PAVLOVA'S "WALK-AROUND" DANCE

BALLERINA ASSOLUTA EXPLAINS

STATELY MOVEMENTS IN FIGURES

Mlle. PAVLOVA AND M. CLUSTINE, ILLUSTRATING THE WALK-AROUND IN THE PAVLOWANA.

This article is one of an illustrated series on Anna Pavlova's "New Social Dances and How to Perform Them," which are to appear daily and exclusively in this newspaper. These articles have been written by Mlle. Pavlova, who as premiere ballerina assoluta of the St. Petersburg Imperial opera is everywhere recognized as not only the greatest living dancer, but the greatest living authority on the art of the dance. The photographs were posed for by Mlle. Pavlova and her partner, Ivan Clustine (maître de ballet of the Imperial opera houses in St. Petersburg and Moscow and at the Paris grand opera), regarded as Europe's foremost masculine social-dancer.

ARTICLE III.
(By ANNA PAVLOVA.)

In the walk-around each dancer moves without holding the hands of the partner. Save for the touching of elbows at points in the dance, there is absolute independence. The concluding salutation, which closes figures, brings the partners face to face, ready for the one I am about to explain.

This third figure requires that the dancers move in a complete circle, so that at the close each shall be at the spot from which they started. The counts run from "one" to "sixteen," the first four consisting of four steps taken by each dancer on alternate feet, the next four counts being used for a salutation similar to the one just explained in the preceding article.

Alternate steps are once again used on the third group of four counts and on the last four counts the dancers make their second salutation—this time on two instead of four counts—after which the partners take two steps toward each other to continue the dance with the fourth figure.

The lady, having finished her previous figure, finds on the pulsation of the first count in the music that starts the figure we are now considering, that she is free to make her first step on the right foot. Placing both hands on her hips, she starts her first part of the walk-around, stepping first with the right foot, then the left, the right again and on the fourth count the left.

Steps exactly like those of the lady are taken by the cavalier, he using the right foot when she uses hers, and making his salutation with the knee of his right leg bent and the left leg held as straight as possible. Each dancer should take steps averaging 7 to 9 inches each and be careful to raise the foot every time and place it in a stately manner on the floor, touching the ball of the slipper or dancing pump only.

The illustration which shows me and my partner taking the first step in the walk-around should give a clear idea of the correct positions of the bodies, arms, legs and feet as well as the general air of suavity which should be preserved in this figure. Just the slightest dip to the body on each step (barely enough to allow for a lowering and raising of the body a few inches), will add to the gracefulness of this part of the figure.

On the counts of "five" and "six" the lady and her cavalier swing to their right and execute their salute, rising again on the "seven" and "eight" counts into position to finish the walk-around. Counts "nine" to "twelve" inclusive are utilized by steps that exact duplicates of those taken on the opening four counts of the figure, and on "thirteen" and "fourteen" the dancers complete their second salutation, which, because of the shorter time permitted for it, must be less formal and not quite as elaborate.

On counts "fifteen" and "sixteen" the lady and her cavalier take two steps toward each other, the lady raising her right hand so it may be grasped by her cavalier in his right preparation to the lady making a little dip to her left under her arm and her partner's arm, which I will write about in my next article.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

(By LILLIAN RUSSELL)

(Copyright: 1915: By Lillian Russell)

T is quite apparent from letters reaching me that many women are bothered with superfluous hair. Indeed, one need only look around to see how many women are trying to hide hair on the lip or cheek. It is the irony of fate that while the women are attempting, in many cases, to make hair grow on their heads, they must exert every effort to check thriving moustaches.

Superfluous hair can be traced to several causes. In some instances it seems quite natural; in others the skin has been neglected, continued exposure to the elements without giving the skin ample opportunity to produce a hairy covering. Lack of judgment in the selection of cosmetics and the application of too much grease and oil are other causes. Grease encourages growth. As a rule, either mistreatment or neglect of the skin is responsible for the misfortune which has befallen the women who are struggling against an unnatural growth of hair.

The electric needle is recommended for the removal of superfluous hair on the face, but some women object to resorting to it. In such cases bleaching may be tried. This will make the hair less noticeable and discourage growth. However, it will hardly remove the blemish. The application of a weak solution of ammonia has a killing effect. If ammonia and a peroxide bleach are applied together, they tend to make hair less noticeable and gradually kill it. As there is a possibility of harm resulting from such a treatment, it is one that is worth trying, but it must be patiently followed and the solution should never be stronger than a teaspoonful to a tumbler of water.

No sensible woman will begin cutting the hair from her face. Cutting merely cultivates it and makes it strong and coarse, until it is almost impossible to remove. You may be tempted to resort to the scissors for temporary relief, but do not yield. Also be careful in your selection of cosmetics, or you will use grease which merely serves as a fertilizer.

If you are troubled by superfluous hairs, now is the time to guard against them. Avoid creams which contain cocoanut oil, for the oil of both the cacao and cocoanut oil stimulate the growth of hair. A slight down upon the face is put there by nature to protect the hair, but it should be invisible. Do not tempt a growth on your lip and cheek. As soon as they begin to appear start your attack upon them.

CLARA H.: I will be glad to give you a harmless bleach for freckles if you will write me again, asking for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

X. Y. L.: I cannot tell from a letter whether you have some skin trouble or only need a good skin food. I will be glad to mail you a skin food! you will write me again, asking for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

D. M.: Sometimes massaging a scar with a nourishing cream will remove it, if it is not too noticeable. I will be glad to give you a skin food if you will write me again, asking for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Q. Z.: I will be glad to send you a cleansing cream to use in connection with the green soap treatment. It will prevent the "draw" feeling of the skin and will also help to cleanse the pores. On account of lack of space, I cannot print the formula in these columns, but will be glad to mail it to you if you will write me again, asking for it, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

LILLIAN: There are many lotions that can be purchased in the drug store for taking off warts. Nitric acid will remove a wart in a short time, but it is very dangerous to use. Use a toothpick to apply the acid to the wart with, and get none on the skin anywhere. This will eat the wart completely away.

POLITICAL ACTION WILL BE CLUBWOMEN'S FIGHT.

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Club women have been active in civic and political affairs announced yesterday that they were going to the annual convention of the California State Federation of Women's clubs, which meets in San Francisco next week, to fight a resolution which would give club women the alternative of eschewing politics or club activities.

POWER OF GROCERS IS SHOWN AT CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—"The Power of the Grocer," was the term applied today to the report, made before the National Retail Grocers' association, showing the immense influence in the nation of the men who feed the people. State reports, showing enormous power, including the obtaining of laws beneficial to the trade and business generally, were read, as a part of the routine business of the big session. Today the exposition was the principal attraction, the business being well conducted, though many when the session was adjourned.

Amendments to the constitution are now being planned by a committee composed of Sol Westerfield of Chicago, John F. Cunningham of Iowa and L. R. Merrick of Oregon. Plans for the annual report and other business matters are under way.

Last night delegates were entertained at a theater party, and today local grocers closed their stores in honor of "Retail Grocer Day" at the exposition.

JACKLING WILL BUILD PALACE FOR HIS WIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Daniel Cowen Jackling, the millionaire mining man who recently married Miss Virginia Jolliffe, has commissioned one of the leading architects of San Francisco to draw plans for a home to be erected on the northeast corner of Washington and Octavia streets. The residence site was purchased by Jackling just before his marriage for $150,000.

The Jackling home will rival in architectural beauty and costly interior splendor the finest residences of the Pacific Coast. No expense or pains will be spared to achieve distinction and beauty as well as comfort in the interior arrangements, furnishings and decorations.

Mr. Jackling will act as consulting architect in planning her home. She proposes to make her mansion a civic ornament, reflecting the best in the modern art of home making.

GIRL CAPITALIST AND HER SECRETARY WED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Another of Mlle. Assoluta's most cherished prerogatives was appropriated yesterday when Miss Daisy Thompson, 22 years old, 411 Capp street, in applying for a marriage license to the city, informed the official that she had herself inscribed as a "capitalist."

Heretofore it had been the accepted practice of those among the male sex who wished to win a woman's heart to conceal their occupation in applying for marriage licenses to give their business as "capitalist."

Miss Thompson applied for a license yesterday to get married to Samuel C. Hobke, 22 years old, 3632 Seventeenth street, who said that he was a private secretary.

AGED MAN PROPOSES "GOAT JITNEY" SERVICE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 12.—"The Ageing Ordinance" Sergeant James Benoff of Police Headquarters, and Captain Schwartz, 50 years of age, made application for a license for "goat jitney" for children to whom he proposes to charge 1 cent each for rides in the parks and other places. "This may be new in Rochester," said Mr. Schwartz, "but it is not new in New York City. I have seen it in Central Park, and I believe it is in Brooklyn. We didn't call it the civil war, but we didn't call them 'tintypes' in those days."

"Although only 1 cent each is charged, a fair sum of money may be made quite a day," he said.

GIFTS ARE NEWS CARRIER.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Frank Waltenberg, who eloped with Miss Bertha Shaack from Kankakee, Ill., and was married in Chicago, released three weeks ago, is now a member of the staff of the Grand hotel recently. The bride had been ill during the early part of her pregnancy, but she has recovered. The couple are now living in a room at the hotel.

PAVLOVA'S "WALK-AROUND" DANCE

PAVLOVA'S "WALK-AROUND" DANCE

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—Exhibiting newspaper clippings and documents which appear to substantiate her claim to direct descent from Francis Scott Key, author of "Star-Spangled Banner," Mrs. Edys Lowrie Huriburt of No. 922 Potter Park avenue told a remarkable story last night of a legacy of $5000 and a title which her lawyer, A. B. Marcell of Pittsburgh, has notified her is shortly to be hers. For it "Lady Key" as Mrs. Huriburt then expects to be able to call herself, will have to thank the love of an Irish baronet, which survived rejection and brought wealth to the descendants of its object and his successful rival.

For seventy years, the inheritance has lain in the Chancery Courts of the British empire. Mrs. Huriburt said last night the right is nearly over and she expects to receive good title and estates as soon as the European war is over.

"Francis Scott Key, author of our national anthem, was my great grandfather," Mrs. Huriburt said. "His elder brother was Sir Malcolm Key, who inherited an estate near Dublin, Ireland."

"My great grandfather had two sons, Malcolm and Isaac. Both boys were devoted to each other, fighting their battles and having their pleasures together. They were inseparable."

BOTH FELL IN LOVE.

"Then one bright day they met pretty little Anne Eliza McKinley. As fate would have it, they both fell in love with her. But even in their rivalry, they remained comrades."

"This went on for some time, until it reached a point where the girl simply had to choose one of them. The night before the decision the two boys met in Malcolm's room. It was decided that the one who lost would go to Dublin and live with their old uncle, who was aging fast. As Malcolm was the oldest, it was decided that he was to waive all rights to the estate if Miss McKinley chose him."

"But Isaac was the fortunate boy. Isaac went back to Ireland. Isaac was my grandfather. Malcolm Key inherited the estates and titles upon the death of his uncle."

"When Malcolm Key died, he bequeathed his entire estate to the sweetheart of his youth, Anne Eliza McKinley. The will read that in the event of her death the estate was to go to her name child, or in event of there being no name child, to her direct descendant."

"But my grandmother and grandfather had died. Their daughter, Anne Eliza, had married Colonel William P. Lowrie, of the Union army. She had moved to Kentucky, and became lost to the successors of Malcolm Key's estates. Col. Lowrie was my father, and Anne Eliza Key-Lowrie my mother."

ESTATE $1,500,000.

"It was not until a few years ago that my younger brother, Francis Scott Key Lowrie, and myself discovered we were entitled to the Irish estate. Our lawyer, A. B. Marcell of Pittsburgh, journeyed to London and died in Dublin in our behalf. He discovered the estate to be valued at $1,500,000, approximately."

"From heliograms, such as a button clipped from General Washington's coat and presented to my great-grandfather, and documents in our possession, we proved our descent. Mr. Marcell has assured me that our inheritance will be turned over to us immediately following the close of this war."

"As the eldest child of an eldest child, I suppose I shall inherit the title with the estate. But my husband and I intend to settle down right here in Los Angeles, and forget all about the title except as a family heirloom."

California women, is designed, according to its advocates, to keep politics out of club life. Opponents declare its purpose is reactionary and calculated to curb women who have attained prominence both in clubs and public life through activity in clubs and public life.

FREEDOM FOR SLIGH TO BE OPPOSED

Master Crook Will Be Rearrested at Once if Probation is Granted.

LOS ANGELES. May 12.—When Charles E. Sligh, master crook, and considered by the police as one of the most hardened and most dangerous criminals who ever operated on the Pacific Coast, appears before Judge Craig tomorrow to make a plea for probation, he will meet bitter and determined opposition and should his request be granted, he will be rearrested before he leaves the court room or before serious charges. Last Tuesday Sligh filed his application for probation immediately after pleading guilty to participating in the robbery of Fred Harlow, and others at the Harbor Hotel, San Francisco.

No criminal record is carried by the Los Angeles police, but he has a worse record than Sligh. He has been arrested innumerable times and in addition to scores of short sentences, he has served seven terms for burglary, robbery, larceny and other such crimes. He has traveled under several aliases, some of them being J. C. Roberts, Sam Hall and William Francis. Following is the criminal record of the man:

As Edward Sligh, No. 651, he was sentenced to the Wyoming State Prison, Rawlins, April 14, 1902.

As Charles Sligh, No. 1453, Montana State Prison, burglary, third degree, from Deer Lodge, Mont., one year, November 15, 1904.

As Edward Hill, house burglary, Utah State Prison. Released December 26, 1906.

Served one term in Montana reform school.

As J. C. Roberts, sentenced from Stockton, Cal., to San Quentin, five years, February 15, 1908; burglary, second degree. Prison number, 22,706. Discharged September 28, 1911.

Arrested at Rochester, N. Y., March 4, 1910, and sentenced to the State Prison for four years and two months. Later transferred to Dannemora Prison, N. Y.

Arrested February 16, 1915, by Detectives King, Oakes, Raymond and Miller for robbing Fred Harlow in November 4, 1914.

MAKES CONFESSION.

Immediately after Sligh's arrest he confessed to having gone with Frank Morrow, a waiter, and Alfred Sells, arch-murderer, and all-around despicable crook, to Mr. Harlow's home, where they held up Messrs. Harlow, Tom Hall and Harry Raymond, taking from them more than $200 in money and jewels.

Morrow was arrested the following day and, when confronted with Sligh's confession, admitted his guilt. It was Morrow's first offense, but his application for probation was denied and he was sentenced to serve eight years in San Quentin Prison.

Sells, after his arrest in Oakland upon telegraph instructions from the local police, detected the names of all but a list of condemned crimes committed in nearly all of the important cities of California. He made the confession to Detectives King and Oakes, implicating Sligh in many of the crimes. Later Sells, upon a promise of immunity from death, confessed the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Vogel in their Fruitvale home. Charged specifically with robbery, he was sentenced here to life imprisonment and, after his arrival at San Quentin, was removed to Oakland for trial on a charge of murder. He pleaded guilty and another sentence to life imprisonment was imposed.

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

In Sells' original confession he told of having gone with Sligh to San Diego, where they beat up and robbed Eugene Stromberg, a well known photographer. Stromberg came to this city and identified both men, and for that job Sligh will be arrested here the moment probation is granted him, if it ever is.

If the San Diego case should prove faulty and the authorities are unable to gain a conviction, which will be arrested on a warrant from San Francisco for a daylight robbery.

BUFFALO BILL AWARDS PRIZES WINNERS SEE SHOW TONIGHT

"BUFFALO BILL" HANDING FIRST PRIZE OF TRIBUNE CONTEST TO WINNER, LAWRENCE SPENCER.

Buffalo Bill met several hundred of his ardent young admirers in the Tribune office yesterday, when he distributed the prizes to the boys and girls who were declared winners in the essay-writing contest on the question: "Is Buffalo Bill a National Hero? Why?" The entire floor space of the Tribune's business office was filled by the crowding, eager children and the venerable Colonel Cody had to take refuge from his admirers behind a counter to save himself from the crush.

The new auditorium has proven as successful a home for a circus as any theater that has been built since the war may be held in abhorrence and universal peace promoted, and "Whereas," "The Clansman or the Birth of a Nation" motion film is based on the play or book of that Thomas Dixon Jr., a writer whose novels deal with the Negro being inferior from birth, and questionable as to the possession of a soul and mind.

"Resolved that we, the citizens and taxpayers of the city of Oakland, and Alameda county, here assembled in mass meeting, and representing the various religious, civic and fraternal organizations in the county, do hereby pass unanimously, a resolution against the continuance of the further production in this city of "The Clansman or the Birth of a Nation" photoplay.

"Resolved that the play tends to destroy peaceful and harmonious relations between colored and white races.

"Resolved that the progress and comparatively unparalleled achievements made by the Negro since his emancipation by his ambition, industry, educational attainments, accomplishments, property, holding etc., has more than counteracted the stigma that "The Clansman" film tends to stamp upon the Negro and

"Resolved that the citizens of African or Negro descent in this city will have the same opportunities and authority to have "The Clansman or the Birth of a Nation" photoplay enjoined from proceeding, and further be it

"Resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the mayor and press, and that a special vote of thanks be herewith extended to the Oakland Tribune for its impartial publications on this subject."

Signed by the committee on resolution.

12-YEAR-OLD BOY ELOPER DECAMPS

Caught in Stockton With Girl Companion. Lad Escapes From Train.

Efforts of the police and parents of 12-year-old Elmer Koenig, boy who eloped with his friend, Turner, his schoolmate, aged 12 years, and got on the train at Stockton, are being bent today in the effort to find the boy. The girl was discovered in Stockton by the police authorities and taken into custody and returned to her home today.

The boy was put on a train with intentions to return to this city, but he stopped en route, and the police have not been able to find a trace of him.

The romantic episode is the talk of the Claremont School which the children attended. Their original plan of going to Alaska to search for gold was not carried out because of the publicity given the elopement, according to the press, and they hurriedly changed their plans, going to Stockton under assumed names.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS IN CONCLUDING SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Final sessions are being concluded today at the big convention of the Knights of Columbus, being held at St. Mary's Cathedral. James F. Keay, newly elected state deputy, and Louis V. Crowley, Dr. Thomas McGuire, and W. A. Kelly, district deputies, were in attendance at the meetings. The ladies are also in session, the convention being opened yesterday at a joint meeting, when Judge Paul J. McCormick, of Los Angeles, addressed the gathering.

Last night the delegates to the big council session were the guests of the local Knights, at a banquet, held at the Exposition.

Deputy Crowley was toastmaster, and among the speakers were Mayor Ralph, who greeted the delegates on the part of the city; Judge James J. McCormick, who replied for the Knights; deputies Keith, Kelly and McGuire; Bishop Edward J. Hanna, who pronounced the benediction, and delivered a short address.

Among the guests were the past State deputies; George A. Connolly and Neal Power of San Francisco; J. Donlin of Oxnard, Edward White of Watsonville; Frank M. Silva of Napa, and Past District Deputies D. J. Coyne and P. J. McCarron of Los Angeles.

Tonight the grand ball will be held at the Knights of Columbus auditorium.

CONVICT SHIP SUCCESS VIEWED BY OAKLANDERS

The old British convict ship, "Success," now on exhibition at the Webster street bridge, where she may be boarded by gypsies, is by all odds the most remarkable visitor that Oakland has ever received.

Launched in 1790 at Moulman, Burrough, and built of the stoutest teak, a timber that is almost indestructible, the "Success" was for a long time one of the fleet of English merchant vessels that brought the prisoners to America. Then it was used in the horrid traffic in convicts between England and Botany Bay, which stains English criminal history with gloomy horror.

More than 600,000 sightseers visited the "Success" when she was in New York harbor, and many students of history and others on criminology have commended its educational value. The curious old craft is open to the public daily from 1 a. m. until 10 p. m., and a visit at night is peculiarly interesting as she is brilliantly lighted throughout by electric lights.

INSTRUCTOR OF S. P. STUDENT COURSE DEPARTS

Norman Collyer, chief clerk of the president of the Southern Pacific and the man in charge of the Southern Pacific student course, left last night for Worcester, Mass., to well represent the railroad company at the annual convention of the national association of corporation schools, June 7 to 11. The association is three years old and is a clearing house for information in connection with the successful and unsuccessful methods that have been tried out by corporations or firms in an effort to increase efficiency by the educational route. Its membership includes 60 of the biggest commercial organizations in the United States, all of whom have done pioneer work along the lines of training young men for better posts.

ROSE NOT DISMISSED BY PRESENT OFFICIALS

Major Oliver Ellsworth of Piedmont today denied that former City Marshal John Rose had been dismissed by the recently elected Board of Trustees against which a recall has been started to be decided at the polls on June 4.

"J. P. Stager, the man who is now running for City Clerk on the recall ticket, was the City Marshal when this board went into office," Ellsworth said. "Rose had been discharged by the retiring board. The present officials had nothing to do with the matter."

MISS TANZER INDICTED.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Miss Eva Tanzer, who gained notoriety recently through her bold breach of promise suit against Fred W. Osborne, was indicted yesterday by the Federal grand jury on charges of perjury. She previously had been indicted, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Dandruff Soon
Ruins the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, healthy, glossy, silky hair, do as all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid astringent; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid astringent at any drug store. It is inexpensive and your money is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

BOOKKEEPING MACHINES MARVELS OF EFFICIENCY

BATTERY OF BURROUGHS ADDING MACHINES USED BY TRIBUNE EXPERTS IN OBTAINING RESULTS OF YESTERDAY'S ELECTION.

A number of the latest style Burroughs bookkeeping machines were used to give The Tribune readers an early and accurate report of the election returns.

The picture shows six of these machines which were recently installed in the First National Bank of Berkeley, which is one of the largest and most progressive banks of the bay cities. These wonderful machines eliminate all the drudgery in bookkeeping and are so simple that an inexperienced person can readily handle a full set of books with no difficulty.

Here are five essentials to efficient ledger posting, and in each the Burroughs is superior to any other method:

One—Accuracy. The machine posts directly to the ledger sheet and at the same time provides an automatic proof which is ready as soon as the posting is finished.

Two—Neatness. Printed figures are neater than any hand writing.

Three—Legibility. Printed figures are easier to read.

Four—Speed. From a careful study of the application of Burroughs machines to ledger posting, in various lines of business, it has been found that, while conditions vary, the machine method actually saves from 25 to 75 percent of the time formerly required to do the work by hand.

Five—Economy. The experience of the First National Bank of Berkeley is typical of that of many other banking institutions where the Burroughs is used for ledger posting and statements, as it enables them to give their depositors a complete printed statement of their accounts whenever it is desired.

Mr. Mortimer, cashier of the above bank, invites any bankers or commercial men who are interested in this system to call at the bank and see these machines in actual operation. Mr. Berling, sales manager of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, 414 Thirteenth street, Oakland, reports that the company has sold over a million dollars' worth of these machines to banks and commercial houses during the past year.

SANTA FE ISSUES BOOST FOLDER FOR OAKLAND

T. A. Rigdon, passenger agent, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. Co., has just received from the passenger department copies of the most complete folder issued by the Santa Fe company, entitled "Sights to See Along the Santa Fe."

The folder gives a complete description of all important cities in the thirteen states in which the Santa Fe operates, shows an up-to-the-minute relief map from Oakland to Chicago, Oakland to Denver and Oakland to Galveston, also shows that part of the Santa Fe that is double tracked (the Santa Fe is double tracked for more than half the distance) categorized by block signals the entire distance. The folder shows the old Santa Fe trail and also gives a complete map of the National Old Trails Road (Grand Canyon Route) and tributary auto routes in the west.

The folder also gives the following advertisement: Altitude 14 feet. Directly opposite San Francisco on east side of bay. Thirty miles water front with six miles wharves plus four miles causeways leading deep water docks in interior road over $200,000,000. Hotel Oakland erected at cost of $2,000,000. Million dollar city hall and auditorium. The folder is one of the best boost books issued for California and western states and will not doubt bring results to California owing to its wide distribution, as it is sent to all agencies in the United States and Europe.

SURVIVORS OF WRECK SAVED; SUFFER GREATLY

By Associated Press.

SEATTLE, May 12.—Six survivors of the Japanese schooner Daifko Maru, wrecked off Nuruwa Island, Aleutian peninsula, in January, were rescued last Monday from the island by the power schooner Polar Bear and taken to Dutch Harbor for medical treatment. The captain of the schooner was drowned at the time of the wreck. Seven men swam ashore. One died later from cold and starvation. The others were wasted by hunger, their only food being dried fish and two survival rations frozen hands and feet. The Polar Bear bound for Siberia made a landing for water and found the suffering Japanese.
